Marc Kummel's Weekly Stumper

MARC'S STUMPER FOR THE WEEK	ABOUT LAST WEEK'S STUMPER
The autumn equinox happens next Tuesday on September 22. It will soon be fall! Nights will be longer than days north of the equator as we move into winter. But consider the big picture. It's spring south of the equator, it's sunrise in Antarctica, and it's twilight as the Sun sinks below the horizon for the six month winter night in the arctic. Do all parts of the Earth receive the same number of daylight hours from the Sun over the year? Do all parts of the Earth receive the same warmth from the Sun? (Is that different?) How does this effect life?	A happy person makes us happy, their sadness saddens all. Your idea could change the world. One rabbit "kindles" her babies, which make more babies... a population explosion. A neutron splits an Uranium nucleus, releasing more neutrons, splitting more atoms... a nuclear bomb. Fire is a similar chain reaction between a fuel and oxygen. It needs a spark to get going, but then it is an exothermic chemical reaction that releases more heat as it burns to keep spreading as long as fuel and air are available. A match can change the world too!

WESTERN DANCE 7-9:30 FRIDAY

Come one; come all! It is the first DMS dance of the year. We welcome visitors who are in 6th-8th grade that you know. Cost is a mere $3 if you got your boots and cowboy hat on, and it includes beverages and a small snack. Dress in western attire if you can rustle it up. No western attire? You'll pay $5 but be welcome anyway. Be prepared to dance every dance and go home with sore muscles, cowboy! Visitors must have a permission slip, ya hear?

STUDENT GOVERNMENT SPEECHES BEGIN WEDNESDAY

The excitement is building. Senators will be the first candidates to give their 1 minute stump speech at lunch beginning on Wednesday. After senators, we will hear from the Secretary of Peace, Sergeant at Arms, Treasurer, Secretary, etc. The final speeches will be presented by the presidential candidates. We are all very excited about this election.

HUGE PARENT THANKS!

An enormous thanks to Veronica Sandoval and Kia Beckert for helping supply sewing machines. An enormous thanks to all of you who are helping supply the canning class with fruits. We hope to have a booth a Day in the Country selling our canned goods! A special thanks to Tammy Vogsland for helping supply the baseball teams with water and snacks. And a huge thanks to the Koehler family and the Hartmann family for helping us with the wine for the Open House. As I heard several times that night, DMS has the best open house!!!

LOLLIPOP SALES TO BENEFIT JUNIORS

The Dunn High School junior class is selling delicious lollipops for $1 this week in an effort to raise money for their prom. Students may purchase the suckers at break, lunch, or after school. Alexandra Jones will be collecting money. No IOUs are accepted at any time this year.

CAN YOU HELP WITH THE DANCE?

Linda needs 1 or 2 more helpers to provide snacks for the dance. We will need water bottles and snacks that are easy to grab (not popcorn). If you can help us on Friday night, please email Linda ASAP. We can also use a few small prizes if you have anything you are willing to donate. Small stuffed animals, candy, small fun toys, t-shirts, western items, other interesting objects are always welcome!

CELL PHONE CONCERNS

We have had several experiences with cell phone abuse over the past week. If it is essential that your child have a phone at school, please make sure he/she keeps it in his backpack at all times. Students are required to ask for permission to use the phone at any time they are on the DMS campus.
